Broadmoor Tax Issue Split Persists

By JANET REINKA

Backers of a Broadmoor ballot measure which would double police district taxes and, opponents say, would only postpone eventual annexation of the tiny community to Daly City, are putting in an all-out effort between now and Nov. 2.

Canvassers were out last weekend to talk to the 7,000 residents of four neighborhoods in the Broadmoor Police Protection District — Broadmoor Village, Sterling Park, Garden Village and Unincorporated Colma.

The measure would double the taxing limit of residents from, proponents say, an average of $40 to $80. But others argue that commercial zone taxes would be higher and that, for those who own more expensive homes, the figure would be closer to $140 — up from $70.

The issue has stirred considerable excitement in Broadmoor and the surrounding area — and with good reason: if it fails, annexation to Daly City and the death of Broadmoor would almost certainly follow.

Over the years, Daly City has annexed chunks of Broadmoor in piecemeal fashion, chipping away at the area's tax base.

A Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) ruling in March prohibited such annexation in the future, so from now on it must be done in an all-or-nothing fashion.

If the police district — which is due to go broke next June without the tax increase — goes out of business, proponents fear that there will be sudden support for annexation among Broadmoorites.

Proponents of the measure, an organized and vocal group, Wednesday night sought support for the measure of their own Police Commission, but were denied because the commission said it wants to remain neutral.

The commission has opposed annexations in the past. However, one commissioner, Jack McCloskey, as well as former long-time chief Ray Savage, believe annexation may have gone so far that it is futile to hang on.

"I feel, personally, that we've lost too much of the area to try to even attempt to save the area," Savage said. "I don't personally think the increase would save the district. They couldn't even afford to buy a new police car, and God knows they need one. I'd love to see the police district remain, but I don't see how they (the proponents) can do it."

Savage said his police taxes would go from $69 to $138 and, coupled with increased assessments, ironically, drive him from the area.

But those in favor of the measure argue that annexation has been going on for 25 years, yet the community has survived.

"These people, I'm telling you, are diehards," said Sue Johnson, an organizer for the measure. "There will not be piecemeal annexation as long as the property is receiving the proper services. If we can keep the police district going, the people will not vote to join Daly City."

McCloskey says, however, that there is no guarantee that Broadmoor residents would be asked about annexation, since they haven't been in the past.

In addition, annexation of other parts of the area might go on and commercial taxpayers might leave the area even with the tax increase, he said.

For both sides, the issue is an emotional one.

"A lot is from the heart, not the head," Mrs. Johnson said. "People here have very strong feelings of county officials for years saying, 'we know what's best for you.' People say, 'you know what's best for us but you don't know what we want.'

"Here, people have police officers who are their neighbors. They know the names of your kids. If financially we can handle it, why not?"

Both sides are also divided on what the outcome of the election will be. Both predict it will be extremely close.

Final Crocker School Hearing on Thursday

The Jefferson Elementary School District governing board will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the George Washington School multi-purpose room to hear how residents feel about having Crocker School rebuilt.

If the plan were implemented, the present Crocker School building would be razed and replaced with a modern kindergarten through sixth grade facility (Crocker is now a kindergarten through third grade school).

The district's share of the building costs would be minimal — approximately $8,000 — if they receive the approximately $1.7 million through a public works bill, Public Law 94-369, from the $2 billion local Public Works Capitol Development and Investment Act of 1976, Title I.

However, to receive that money — so they can rebuild (without these funds the re-building plans would have to be dropped) — the district must spend some $36,000 from its bond building fund to cover costs of architectural plans, which must be submitted along with the grant application.

Should the district not receive the grant. It would lose all $36,000, warned the trustees.

There would be some discomforts involved should rebuilding take place, cautioned the Trustees, such as double-day sessions. JESD Supt. Peter Hansen said the sessions could run from 7:45 a.m. to noon and then from 12:30 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

One mother objected to this at a meeting last week. She said a hardship on the many working parents in the area by increasing babysitting fees. In addition, she said, some youngsters may be left by themselves all morning waiting to start school at noon.

The trustees also warned the audience that the present Crocker site is next on the list of those schools to be closed, because it is the oldest and smallest school in the district.

If residents decide they want Crocker rebuilt they could be assured of maintaining a neighborhood school, but if they decide

Broadmoor's Carnival, Parade This Saturday

The annual Broadmoor Property Owners Association parade and carnival will be held Saturday.

The carnival will start at 11 a.m. at the Community Center, 87th and Washington streets.

The parade will begin at 1 p.m. at 87th and Stoneyford streets and will proceed down 87th to Washington Street and up to MacArthur Drive.

"Fun" is the theme of the carnival, which will include games, art and baking contests, food and drinks and prizes for all.

A doll house, handmade and donated by Mrs. Veida Johnson, will be offered, a hand-crocheted shawl, a cake and a straw flower arrangement.

County Supervisor Edward Bacciocco will be this year's grand marshal.

He was invited in appreciation for the interest he has shown in the Broadmoor Police District and for his service to San Mateo County.

Following the grand marshal in the parade will be the Broadmoor Police Department, the Colma Fire Department, Scouts in full uniform, horses, floats and marching bands to help keep everyone in step. Parade entries still are being accepted, so area residents are urged to decorate cars, bikes and themselves (it's almost Halloween) or pets and march in the parade.

To enter, contact Mike Handlin, 1020 Washington St., or Randy Wall, 1038 Gilman Drive.

The scouts will sponsor another race this year (last year it was called the Santa Sprint). Signup will be prior to race time, which is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at the carnival.

Night of the Guano For DC Fire Fighters

For Daly City firemen, it was a night of the guano.

Capt. Mike Orloff said firemen were called to the Serra Theatre, where smoke billowed from the large marquee tower. Orloff said an electrical short ignited several years' collection of pigeon manure.

Firemen crawled inside the marquee and finally extinguished the flames, but it put them on the scene 2½ hours — from 11:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. today.

Orloff said there was little fire damage to the metal marquee.

The Morning's Silence Broken

SSF's Main Problem

By JANET PARKER

The sun is yet to rise.

Cats stalk their prey in the yard and dart across the street in front of cars.

It's so quiet you can hear the snails crawling on the sidewalk.

Then—BAM! The early morning silence is broken by a ruptured water main and an entire neighborhood jumps five feet out of bed.

Mario Cuturufelli said this has happened near his South San Francisco home 13 times in five years. He and his neighbors are tired of it.

So tired, Cuturufelli said, they are asking the California Water Co. to remedy the situation immediately.

He said some residents are contemplating legal action just to nudge the company into resolving the water pipe problem.

"The havoc this raises in the homes is tremendous," Cuturufelli said.

The families in his neighborhood who are affected by the water main breaks are suffering emotionally and psychologically every time those blasts of water break the early morning silence, he said.

"It's become a big joke," Cuturufelli said. "We're at the mercy of the water company."

Cuturufelli, a member of the city's Housing Authority, said residents not only suffer the trauma of being awakened from a sound sleep but they must endure a day without water.

At least 20 houses on Sunnyside Drive between Forest View Drive and Willow Avenue are affected every time the pipes break, he said.

The first time it happened, five years ago, the water company opened up a nearby fire hydrant and residents could walk to the corner to get water for cooking and washing, Cuturufelli recalled.

But, since then, no such courtesy has been offered, he said.

"It's a very serious thing," he said.

He complained that the Water company is doing patchwork instead of repairing the main entirely.

"It's costly to the company and it's a great inconvenience to the people,"

Shooting Incident Brings Arrest

A 21 year old unemployed housekeeper was arrested by Daly City Police on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder after she allegedly fired a shot at a grocery store clerk Saturday night.

The shot, fired by Sebrina L. Holton, 560 Carter St., Daly City, at Vineta A. Ahkong, 36, missed, according to police.

The incident took place at a checkstand at the El Rancho food market, 2665 Genova Ave., apparently climaxing an argument between the pair.

A police department news statement said that a fellow employe, Lautoa Lautoa came to the clerk's aid, but he, too, allegedly was threatened.

Harbor District

LAFCO Recommends Dissolution

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Dissolution of the San Mateo County Harbor District was recommended Thursday by a 3 to 1 vote of the County Local Agency Formation Commission.

The action came after a five-hour hearing in which it was charged that the dissolution is spearheaded by conservationists who are opposed to the proposed Pillar Point Harbor development.

LAFCO Commisisoner William H. Royer, who voted against the dissolution motion of Commissioner A. C. "Bud" Harrison, commented that if the dissolution proceeds, "I feel badly this project could well go down the drain."

Joining Harrison in voting to recommend the dissolution, which has been sought by 10 San Mateo County cities, were Commissioners Jean Fassler and John P. Lindley. Neither Commissioner McRobert Stewart of Daly City nor his alternate, John J. Murray of San Mateo, were present for the hearing.

The commission's dissolution resolution now goes to the County Board of Supervisors, which will schedule a public hearing and decide whether to reject the LAFCO recommendation and keep the Harbor District in existence, or to place the dissolution matter before the electorate in the consolidated election March 1, 1977.

James Dennis, attorney for the Harbor District, noting that the current dissolution effort is the fifth attempt in 10 years to dissolve the district "or destroy its capabilities," charged that "the purpose of the dissolution hearing is to prevent the Pillar Point development."

Prior to start of Thursday's hearing, Dennis filed a motion seeking to disqualify Commissioners Harrison, Fassler and Lindley from participating in the proceedings on the assertion of conflict of interest.

Dennis noted that Harrison is a member of the Burlingame City Council which adopted a resolution seeking dissolution of the Harbor District. He said that Mrs. Fassler was a member of LAFCO and of the Bord of Supervisors in 1966 and in each capacity voted to dissolve the district.

All three of the commissioners, Dennis asserted, have predetermined the issue of dissolution by voting for a "zero" sphere of influence for the district and should have been disqualified from participating in the Thursday proceedings.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Casey III ruled that the grounds were not sufficient for disqualification if the commissioners believed they could listen and vote impartially on the matter.

A parade of representatives of cities seeking the dissolution appeared before the commission to reiterate past urgings that the dissolution be recommended and the matter be placed before the electorate.

Kent Mitchell, a member of the Portola Valley Town Council, charged that the "Harbor District has set up operations to obscure itself from public view" by holding meetings in its remote Coastside headquarters.

Robert Davidson, city manager of Hillsborough, said the city council there is "not in a position for or against (dissolution), but wants it submitted to the voters."

Menlo Park Mayor James Calloway said he concurred with the recommendation of the LAFCO staff that the county of San Mateo should be designated as successor to the district because "the Board of Supervisors can best order priorities."

James Kuebelback, a member of the consultant firm which is preparing the plan to add 440 boat berths at Pillar Point, said the dely in proceeding with the project, now estimated at $8 million to $9 million, is reulting in costs increase of 10 to 12 per cent a year.

"If the dissolution occurs," he stated, "it means abandoning, or a big cost increase. The reasonable solution is to allow the district to do it (complete the project).

Kuebelbeck noted that in Southern California the trend is to create special service districts, rather than dissolve them. He said that in Orange County 75 per cent of harbor income is used for inland park development.

"I think this (dissolution) is absolutely stupid," he went on. "It is not being done in other areas. We never work anything out here, we just come back every two years and try to dissolve."

Ron McClellan, general manager of the district, said the district has "a good project, and should finish it."

"If the district is dissolved," he added, "it should be after development, and the county will not have to take over liabilities."

Spray Painting Trade School Wins Approval

A trade school for automobile spray painters was unanimously approved by the South San Francisco Planning Commission Tuesday night.

The school, which will be located at 1366 San Mateo Ave., will offer training facilities for up to 10 students, said Miracle Auto Painting Co. representative Al Rosetti.

Commissioner Herbert Goldberg asked Rosetti if the area outside would be littered with wrecks. Rosetti replied that the company would handle mostly commercial vehicles that had not been involved in serious collisions. The site of the proposed school is in the heavy industrial district.

Replying to further questions, Rosetti said there would be four instructors as well as eight permanent staff members. After students complete instruction, they would be offered franchises for their own auto painting outlets.

In other action, the Commission unanimously approved a variance requested by Hugh Robertson for the construction of an apartment building at 3 Lewis Ave. The building will consist of six two-bedroom and two one-bedroom units.

A woman who lives opposite the site expressed concern about the parking and the Commission went into a lengthy discussion on whether the one and a quarter spaces per unit were adequate.

An application for the construction of 81 townhouse units between Randolph and Hillsside was continued to the Oct. 26 meeting as was an application for a subdivision map to resubdivide the 12 acres involved.

Although the applications were continued, the commission allowed neighbors — including a spokesman of the United Taxpayers Association — to be heard.

Responding to their questions, a representative of the developers said that the townhouses would sell in the region of $55,000 to 60,000 and would be compatible with existing homes in the neighborhood.

The city engineer said he anticipated no problems with additional sewage generated by the development.

Nine acres on Grandview Drive Between Point San Bruno and East Grand Avenue will be re-subdivided into two lots following unanimous approval from the commission. A spokesman for the owners — Cabot, Cabot and Forbes — told the commission that one lot would be leased to a single tenant. Both lots are within the heavy industrial zone district.

Pacifica Grants Garbage Fee Hike

The Coastside Scavenger Co., serving Pacifica, received a rate increase from the City Council this week.

An ad hoc committee of the council, Nick Gust and Mark Savage, reported that a rate increase was justified and should be approved by the council.

Scavenger Co. President Mario Torrigino had said that increases in dump fees, union wages and benefits, postage rates, gas and oil and repairs, made a rate hike a necessity for the company to survive.

The new base rate for 40-gallon garbage cans in residential areas will be $3.75 a month, a 45-cent increase.

Rates for senior citizens and permanently disabled persons will be $3.20 a month, a 40-cent hike.

Commercial rates also will go up. The new rate for a 30-gallon can pickup once a week is $3.70 a month. For pick-up six times a week, the new rate is $24.70 a month, up from $22.25.

The council has asked City Manager Don Weidner to investigate putting the scavengers charges on the annual tax bill, to cut down on administrative costs.

The committee also asked the city to investigate the possibility of buying the Edgemar School site from the Laguna Salada School District for use as a transfer station.

The city presently is faced with the dilemma of transporting all its garbage — at great cost — to the Ox Mountain dumpsite in Half Moon Bay after its present contract to use Mussel Rock in Daly City is discontinued.

They are off and running at Bay Meadows this afternoon and watching them from the comfort of the Turf Club dining area will be the members of the Westlake Catholic Women.

Mrs. George San Pietro, publicity chairman for the Our Lady of Mercy group, reports that a large number of the membership, accompanied by friends, will be enjoying this afternoon's program of racing, and in so doing helping the festival committee raise funds for that big fund raising eventin the spring.

FROM THE HORSES TO THE TOMES — The Friends of the Daly City Library will welcome Goldye Mullens tomorrow morning at 10 when she appears in the Coral Room of the Westlake branch of the Library to review several books on cooking.

Mrs. Mullins, who is a food editor, will review Madame Wu's The Art of Chinese Cooking, The Ivy Awards Cook Book, and Trader Vic's Helluva Man's Cook Book.

Guests and visitors are always welcome at the book reviews and are invited to join the members at a no-host luncheon for the guest speaker following the meeting.

The book review is only the first chapter in the "Friends" date book for this week. On Saturday, new members and prospective members will be honored at a tea to be held in the Community Club cultural room of the Serramonte branch of the library.

Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach is chairing this afternoon event and assisting her will be Mrs. Lois Manbert, Mrs. Gertrude Kendree, Mrs. Betty Martinez, Mrs. Virginia Tierney and group president Mrs. Verna Teglia.

Highlight of the tea will be the presentation of a portion of Arthur Miller's The Crucible by members of Diane Streeter's drama class at Serramonte High School.

The tea will begin at 1 p.m.

The Alumni of St. Joseph's School of Nursing will hold a reunion and pay a whimsical tribute to the bi-centennial year on October 30, according to Mrs. Ann TNheis, publicity director and member of the alumni board.

The dinner dance will be held in the Officers' Club of the Presidio with no-host cocktails to be available beginning at 7 p.m. A sit down, prime rib dinner will be served at 8 p.m. and dancing, to the music of Al Borelli and his Men of Music will get underway at 9 p.m.

Mrs. Carolyn Piazza, 2315 Adeline Drive in Burlingame, is accepting requests for reservations. Tickets are available for $14 per person and checks must reach Mrs. Piazza prior to October 26.

The dance is being presented by the board of directors, Mrs. Betty Jerabek, president, Mrs. Mary Fabian, vice president; Mrs. Marion Tonge, secretary; Mrs. Isabel Roman, treasurer and Mrs. Diane Creeden membership chairmen. Directors are Mrs. Maryann Carter, Mrs. Audrey Taylor, Mrs. Piazza and Mrs. Theis.

THE RESERVATIONS have been made and paid for and now it's off to Reno and Sparks for hose hard working volunteers who are members of Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

The big day arrives next week, just in time to give everyone a bit of fun before the grueling days of the annual Christmas boutique.

Mrs. Millie Dunow is in charge of the Boutique De Noel which will be opened on Nov. 4 with a Champagne preview in the hospital solarium.

Members and their friends will gather at 7 p.m. to sip champagne and browse about among the tables of gifts, decorations, food and plants.

MRS. CARMEN FRY is accepting reservations from Brownie group leaders who wish their troops to take part in the Brownie play day at Camp Ida Smith Oct. 30.

This will be a special event centering around the OBIS project — an outdoor Biological Instructional Strategy.

A PRE-HOLIDAY fashion show is to be sponsored by the Upper Peninsula League of the San Francisco Symphony, according to Mrs. Murray H. Freedman.

The first I. Magnin International Fashion show and luncheon will be held in the new ballroom of the Hilton Inn at the San Francisco International Airport on Nov. 3, and will feature, as models for men's fashions, Frank Dill and Wayne Walker.

Music for the afternoon will be provided by Standing Room Only. Paintings by Joan Baron will be on display in the lobby. Grand prize will be two round trip tickets to Hawaii.

Mrs. Samuel Marty and Mrs. Freedman will accept applications for reservations. Tickets cost $15 per person. All proceeds go to the San Francisco Symphony.

THE TIERNEY TWINS, Janice and Judy, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Tierney, celebrated their 21st birthdays with a dinner party at Bianchini's Oct. 13.

Friends and relatives were on hand to mark the occasion and share in the joy of being 21.

TURKEY DEATHS

High blood pressure and hardening of the arteries will kill five to seven per cent of the turkeys raised this year.

Overload Worries Teachers In MGM

A decision to funnel almost 100 new students into the Mentally Gifted Minors program of the Jefferson Elementary School District is causing a turmoil for the two teachers and MGM program director, Dorothy Lithicum.

Wednesday, the head teacher in the MGM program, Rod B'Acquisto, and the only other staff teacher in the program at the present time, Jane Lowe, told trustees that the influx of new students will seriously hamper their ability to meet all the criteria outlined in the MGM funding application.

B'ACQUISTO and Lowe are putting in eight to 10 hours a day with the 209 students now in the program, said Joyce Woodworth, the principal of Thomas Edison School, where the MGM program is housed.

Mrs. Woodworth told the board it not only would be an impossible task for the two MGM teachers to handle the additional 100 students, but also would place a tremendous burden on a principal having to assume administrative responsibilities for new students.

Solutions to the dilemma ranged from adding at least one new MGM teacher and a full-time secretary to finding more space to house the additional students. Additional sites discussed were at the Marge Tobias School or Fernando Rivera School.

However, Mrs. Beverly Forrester said if the district can survive this year's cramped quarters by using both the Thomas Edison and either Marge Tobias or Fernando Rivera School, they might be able to locate next year at General Pershing School if Crocker is renovated and turned into a kindergarten through sixth grade facility.

IN THE MEANTIME, the Board has imposed a freeze on all testing of new students for the MGM program and has asked that the MGM staff and director salvage the program, with the hope that next year things will look better.

B'Acquisto, Lowe and Lithicum will work together on a recommendation to the board as to what is the best way to proceed.

SPEAKER

A lecture will be given by Albert B. Crichlow Nov. 9, in the auditorium of Ortega Elementary School, 1283 Terra Nova Blvd., Pacifica, at 8 p.m. Crichlow is from Trinidad, West Indies.

New Members Coffee Set

A 10 a.m. "welcome to new members coffee" meeting is being held at the Josephine D. Randall Jr., museum Oct. 28 at 199 Museum Way, San Francisco.

Guests are invited.

Samuel Chandler

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER

Oh the shame of it! I told someone that Alexander Pope was the author of the lines that hold that no man is an island when in truth it was John Donne.

Just for fun let's see if you can handle some questions that anyone ought to know the answers to.

Ready?

San Francisco was named for a great and saintly man named St. Francis. Was he Francis of Giralomo who cared for the poor, Francis Solano who was a missionary to South America, Francis of Assisi or Francis of Paola?

Now try this one. John Qincy Adams was the only President of the United States who used his whole middle name rather than just the initial. Can you name five famous Americans who followed the same practice?

Just like you, Queen Victoria read "Alice and Wonderland," but unlike you she was able to write to the author, Lewis Carroll and command him to send her a copy of another one of his books. A few days later he sent her a copy of "A Syllabus of Plane Algebraical Geometry" by Charles Lutwridge Dodgson. Before she could scream, "Off with his head," someone explained that Dodgson and Carroll were the same person.Can you say which was his real name and which the nom de plume?

HERE'S ONE THAT will cut you down to size. Which of the following were purely fictitious characters — Jonathan Livingston Seagull, Oedipus Rex, John Birch, Perry Mason, Butch Cassidy, Johnny Tremain?

Who wrote Pilgrims' Progress? Was it Paul Bunyan, John Bunyan or Roger Bacon?

For an easy question here is a list of Americans. Which one is the Webster of Webster's Dictionary: Daniel Webster, Harold Tucker Webster, Alice Jane Chandler Webster (no relation of mine), Noah Webster? Here's a hint. The author was named after the parent of Ham, Shem and Japheth.

Since this is an election year, we'll dedicate this question to Jimmy Carter and Jerry Ford. Name the presidents who said;

"We have nothing to fear, but fear itself?"

"And the government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

"Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country."

"The buck stops here."

You've heard of the Dewey boys. There was Thomas E. Dewey, Melvil Dewey, John Dewey and George Dewey. Each was famous in his day, each wrote a book although writing was not his main avocation. One of them created the Dewey Decimal System, one ran for president, one was a sailor, one was a philosopher. Can you say which was which?

ALTHOUGH I'M SURE you've answered them all correctly, here are the answers. San Francisco was named for St. Francis of Assisi, who was commanded by a voice that came from an image of Christ and said "Francis, repair my falling house." From then on he roamed through the known world preaching peace, love and humility.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Oliver Wendell Holmes, John Greenleaf Whittier, Edgar Allan Poe, William Cullen Bryant, William Gilmore Sims, James Fenimore Cooper, William Dean Howells. There are many more who suffered from "whole name complex."

His name was Charles Lutwidge Dodgson. It really was. Even the Queen (after all she had five given names) could understand why he preferred Lewis Carroll.

John Birch was a real life soldier whose death inspired the founder of the society called after his name. Butch Cassidy really was George Le Roy Parker. Present debates are not about whether he lived but how, where and if he died. Oedipus Rex may have really lived. If he did then he did kill his father and marry his mother. Perry Mason and Johnny Tremain never drew a living breath, neither did the bird Jonathan Livingston Seagull nor did he ever wave a wing.

John Bunyan wrote "Pilgrim's Progress" and was jailed for doing so. Paul Bunyan couldn't have fit in a jail if he had lived in the body created for him by the myth-makers of the lumber industry of America. Roger Bacon was a scientist who made a lot of progress but never a pilgrimage.

THE DICTIONARY MAN was Noah Webster. He also wrote spelling books and poetry.

The presidents who said those wise words were Franklin D. Roosevelt, J. F. Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln, Harry S. Truman.

As to the Deweys: Melvil is the Decimal man, Thomas E. ran against both Roosevelt and Truman, George was an admiral in the Spanish American War, and John is considered by some observers to have been America's greatest philosopher.

Well now, how did you do? If you answered three correctly you get a mark in the sky.

husband are divided on the issue. He plans to vote for the increase. She has been disappointed in the department's service and says a number of her neighbors feel the same.

Yet, like many in the area, joining Daly City would be a bitter pill to swallow, indeed. "If we go with Daly City, I don't know if it'll get any better."

Another family, Herman and Helen Dulac, also are divided on the issue. Mrs. Dulac says that although her husband definitely favors the issue, she hasn't made up her mind.

Toni Shaffer, a four-year resident of the area, says she "can't see why we can't merge with Daly City. We're so small."

If the measure fails, proponents say there are still a few, last-ditch options they can try.

"You have to maintain police protection, but not necessarily the department," said Ralph Damon. In that event, the commission would do the job or contract out with Brisbane or Colma police or the Sheriff's Department.

But McCloskey says that won't work either.

"It would cost $200,000 a year," he said. "How are we going to pay for that if we can't pay for police protection ourselves."

The prospect of joining Daly City for backers of the issue is just too horrible to contemplate.

"From the type of treatment we've received from Daly City. . . ." Damen said. "It's been complete dishonesty. We've caught them in deliberate lies throughout the years. You just can't rely on them."

Cuturufelli said. "What dollar value can you put on the mental problems it creates?"

One resident, he said, suffered through a broken main in his driveway six times.

Cuturufelli sought the City Council's sympathy last week, presenting them a scenario of an early morning water main rupture.

Acting City Manager Frank Addiego said the city has no control over broken water mains, pointing out that the neighborhood's sounding board is the Public Utilities Commission.

However, he agreed that 13 breaks in five years is an unusually high number.

Addiego, Cuturufelli and South San Francisco water company manager Doug Southworth are to meet sometime next week to discuss the pipe problem.

Southworth said the problem was due to a malfunction in a pressure regulator that has been recently replaced.

In the early morning hours, he said, there's more pressure on the pipes because less water is in use by residents. The pressure builds and the pipes eventually burst, particularly when the regulator is not doing what it should.

"There shouldn't be any more problem at all," Southworth said. However, there are no current plans to replace the entire pipe. That decision would come from the company's main office in San Jose.

He said he recalls nine, not 13, pipeline breaks in recent years.

However, Cuturufellis said he's still not assured that the patched-up pipe will hold up.

against rebuilding they face the day (in three to five years), district officials say, when they will see their children reassigned and bused to other schools.

Pressed for further comment by the audience, the board members said that ofor the past two-years the trustees have been advised by their administrative staff to close Crocker because it is becoming too costly to maintain. Trustees, however, have decided against closing to date, because they believe in having neighborhood schools.

Residents also were told that this was a one-shot piece of legislation that comes infrequently, so the decision they make would mean the difference between keeping their school or losing it, since the district itself has no funds for rebuilding.

Crocker School Principal Sandy Williamson said that when she went to the school she had heard rumors that it would be closed because it was outdated.

She said the building did have charm, but there are some problems — such as only one electrical outlet per room and being able to use only one audio visual appliance at a time.

Mrs. Williamson said the Crocker School did look good, in fact better than she had ever seen it, but that "a lot of Band-Aids" had been used to keep it together.

Chester Bowles, the architect selected to draw the plans should the residents give their approval, showed slides of his work on schools built on similar hilly terrain.

He said the present Crocker School could handle a maximum of 200 children, although it has held up to 250. He said he would design the new school to hold 295 children, and it would have air conditioning, tinted glass (which also is unbreakable), and movable walls to enlarge or decrease class space as desired.

Trustee Alvin Schwartzbach spoke against the rebuilding plan. He said he preferred to see the funds ($36,000) spent directly on education.

Schwartzbach said the board should consider other sites that are better adapted to building — flatter and larger.

The state suggests an average of nine acres for school sites, said Schwartzbach, while the Crocker site measures only 1.4 acres.

Schwartzbach suggested that it might be feasible to consider putting all the children from neighboring Crocker, General Pershing and George Washington Schools on the George Washington site, since it has a large, level lot.

"We're jumping at a half-backed idea," said Schwartzbach, who went on to complain, "We see a carrot dangling in front of us (the federal grant) and we just want to grab it."

Trustee James Cranna did caution that the $36,000, which would have to come out of the bond building fund, would be drawing from their savings from other expenses such as reroofing jobs.

"It's like drawing an inside straight," he said, "without knowing what the outcome will be."

The play is under the superb direction of Ms. Diane Streeter. George Jackson, assistant student director, will be helping Ms. Streeter.

Featured in lead roles are K. D. Banks, Sam Martinez, Tia Speros, and two Serramonte English teachers, William Wood and Thomas Fitzpatrick.

As is typical of Serramonte plays, the set will be brilliantly designed, constructed, and lighted. The Stage Manager is Mike Scerri, Lighting Manager is Janet Aguilera, and Mr. Ed Brush, Brenda Spriz, Rob Diviniagracia, and Teri Small will be the construction crew.

The cast is now rehearsing five to seven days and nights a week and "The Crucible" promises to be one of Serramonte's finest productions.

MRS. PAUL COLLINS
(Portia Jackson)

Jackson-Collins

Paradise Baptist Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Portia Joyce Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alson E. Jackson of Daly City, and Paul Thomas Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Collins of Troy, N.Y.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white silk and satin designed by Eva Fink of Burlingame and styled with a chain of covered buttons at the back and a full length train accented with pearls.

Teri Leatrice Jackson, the maid of honor for her sister, wore a multicolored chiffon gown with a soft pink organza insert, long full sleeves and an Empire bodice. The gown was made by her mother, Beatrice Jackson. The bridesmaids, who each wore a different shade of the rainbow, included Rella Roshora of San Francisco, Aileen Jenkins of Los Angeles, Belinda Joseph of Daly City, Sandra Howard of Daly City, Carolyn Alexander of Los Angeles, Gwendolyn Moss of San Jose and Arleen Dial of Fairfield. Shanna Parker of Troy, N.Y., served as the flower girl.

Sylvester Murry of San Jose stood with Paul as best man, and guests were seated by George Dial of Fairfield, Williams Bell Jackson of Los Angeles, Anthony Mass of San Jose, Tony Parker of Troy, N.Y.; Webster Rosbora of Daly City, Timothy White of Oakland and Ken Williams of Los Angeles.

Groomsmen duties were shared by LaMarr Spencer of Vallejo, Rodrick Carl White of Oakland and Leonard Hogue of Daly City. Amani Douglas performed ring bearer duties and Jason Douglas performed train bearer duties. Chenitta Hogue and Rodrick Carl White served as candlelighters.

Guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frances Bowie of Hodge, La.

After the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted well-wishers at the church before departing for a second reception at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo. They honeymooned in Hawaii and are making their first home in Southern California where both are account executives for an insurance firm.

THE STEVE MINUCCIANIS
(Barda Thorgaard)

The bride is a graduate of Jefferson High School in Daly City and Pitzer College in Claremont where she earned her bachelor of arts degree in clinical psychology. Her husband was graduated from Troy High School in New York and Alfred University in New York where he majored in sociology and business administration.

Thorgaard-Minucciani

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jens N. Thorgaard of San Bruno, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minucciani of South San Francisco.

The newlyweds, who were honored at a reception at the South San Francisco Elks Club, honeymooned in Hawaii and are making their first home in Redwood City.

For her wedding, the bride selected a white organza gown appliqued with French lace flowers and styled with long sleeves, a short train and a matching veil trimmed in lace. Yellow and orange chiffon dresses were chosen by her attendants.

Jeannie Thorgaard served as her sister's honor attendant, and Margie Shaw, Cindy Traverso, sister of the bridegroom, and Nancy Conover performed secondary attendants' duties.

The bride has studied at Crestmoor High School and Skyline College. Her husband was educated at South San Francisco High School and the University of San Francisco.

AWARDS PRESENTED GROUP

The Troubadors of the St. Francis Heights Dance & Music Guild of Daly City were presented last week with awards from Alan Lucas, chairman of the Horsemen's Association of the San Mateo Bicentennial Commission. Part of the talented singing and dancing group on hand to receive the citations presented by Lucas at his Woodside ranch were (left to right) Joyce Johnson, Kathy Mayorga, Katherine Wheeler, Janet Bishop, Carol Moreno, Bonnie Johnson, Cherie Ungaretti, Joyce Steinberg, Caryn Unaretti and Sabrina Haaland. All reside in Daly City, Pacifica, South San Francisco or San Bruno.

Boys Club Allocation Questioned

The Pacifica Boys Club has been successful in seeking $15,000 from the City Council.

Two of the five council members — Sidney Lorvan and Mayor Janice Folford — voted against the appropriation.

Mayor Fulford said the $15,000 would have saved two of the city's community centers that were closed this year as an economy measure.

She also said the allocation could have prevented the council from raising many of the fees for recreation programs this fall.

"I don't find it possible to vote on this however worthy it may be," she said.

And Lorvan said it was simply "too much money."

Boys Club executive director John Lank said the center expects to serve up to 5,000 young people next year, including more than 1,000 girls.

The $15,000, Lank said, would help pay for three full-time staff positions — a boys' social director, girls' social director and vocational instructor.

The projected total budget for 1976-77 is $86,579. Of that, $13,000 is obtained from San Mateo County revenue-sharing funds and the remainder must be raised by the center staff and volunteers.

A new $250,000 clubhouse was completed this month. A vacational training program has been added to the club, necessitating a vocational instructor.

SSF Teachers, Trustees Review 143-Page Proposal

A contract proposal that includes paid vacations, improved life insurance policy and a 5 per cent salary increase on top of the annual cost-of-living increase has been unveiled by the South San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association.

The board of trustees was handed the 143-page package Wednesday night, kicking off the South San Francisco Unified School District's first experience with collective bargaining procedures.

The package originally was ready to present in March. However, a dispute between the board of trustees and the SSFCTA over the inclusion of substitute teachers in the bargaining unit delayed the start of negotiations.

Although the position of substitutes still must be determined by the State Educational Employment Relations Board, the SSFUSD board discovered a month ago that it could go ahead and negotiate anyway on all issues except substitutes.

The public hearing of the teacher's proposal — as required under new state legislation connected with collective bargaining — will be held Oct. 29.

It appears that the proposal by the SSFCTA, which will be countered with a board proposal in November, will open up some old wounds.

Specifically, the teachers are asking not only for a cost-of-living increase based on Bay Area standards for 1975-76 but an additional 5 per cent to make up for the difference between what they requested and what they got last year.

District teachers went on strike for two weeks during the previous negotiations in May, 1975. They sought a 10 per cent increase but received 4.25 per cent in the eventual strike settlement. They also received an additional one-half per cent in contingencies the year.

In a possibly unique request, the SSFCTA is seeking vacation pay based on a pro-rata share of teachers' annual salary.

The proposal is for two paid weeks at the end of the first year of service, three weeks after the second and third years, four weeks after the fourth year and five weeks after the sixth working year.

SSFCTA president John Heron said teachers are paid for working 180 days a year and aren't given any extra pay for working after school and on weekends.

"The public assumes this is part of the job," Heron said.

The major employe benefit being proposed is a significant increase in life insurance policies.

Presently, teachers have a $5,000 policy. The SSFCTA is seeking a fully paid, decreasing-term policy ranging from $48,200 for teachers who are 25-years-old to a $19,440 policy for teachers who are in the 60-65 age bracket.

Another unusual request is a provision that states simply, "All certificated employes shall at least once every five years be responsible for a classroom assignment for one semester during the regular school year."

It would mean that any individual holding a credential, from the administration downward, would be required to teach at least one class every five years.

OFFICES IN OTHER CALIFORNIA CITIES

Pacifica Light May Yet Shine

After completing night-time tours through the city, the Pacifica City Council has agreed to study a recent cutback in street lighting at a Nov. 3 study session.

At least one councilman, Nick Gust, is ready to bring the city out of the dark.

"I'd like to see them all go on again," Gust said Tuesday night.

His motion to do exactly that at the next council meeting, however, was rejected 2-3, with Councilman Mark Savage joining Gust in approval.

Instead, the study session was scheduled.

Pacifica residents packed a September council meeting and presented a petition signed by 2,000 persons asking that the council turn the street lights back on.

As a money-saving measure, the council had voted in June to reduce street light by about one-third, saving $36,000.

The city's director of community services, Les Clark, informed the Chamber of Commerce and all 11 of the city's homeowners' associations by letter in March that the street lighting cutback was being considered.

Clark received five letters and a few phone calls from residents opposing the cutback.

The city has retained lights at intersections, crosswalks, sharp curves and other problem areas.

However, it became apparent once the lighting cutback went into effect during the summer that residents were not pleased.

They have demanded that the council reconsider its action.

Each council member individually toured the city in the evening hours last week.

Gust said he's satisfied that the cutback was a mistake.

"I've heard nothing but comments form ladies, in particular, who are scared to death," Gust said.

The $36,000 saved by the city in turning out one-third of the lights isn't worth the hardship it has caused residents, Gust said.

Other council members declined Gust's request that they explain where they stand as a result of last week's inspection.

The council has requested that the police chief, staff members, Pacific Gas & Electric Co. representatives and resident Ken Kirby, who led his protest, be asked to attend.

Councilman Off Panel

Daly City Councilman William Schumacher is being replaced as a member of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act Council (CETAC) due to his having missed three consecutive meetings of the group.

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors was notified of the action Tuesday by Robert Obrey, chairman of CETAC, and authorized a letter to the County Council of Mayors requesting recommendations for appointment of a successor.

Obrey, in a letter to the board, requested that "strong consideration" be given to the appointment of a representative from East Palo Alto.

CETAC is in charge of recommending the allocation of Manpower Training Act funds in the county.

CSEA Picks South City Engineer President

William A. Craib, 2410 Tipperary Ave., South San Francisco, an associate transportation engineer with the Department of Transportation, was elected president of the 110,000-member California State Employees' Association last weekend. He succeeds Robert Spiegal.

Craib, vice president of CSEA last year, won with a slight majority among 812 delegates convened in general council Oct. 8-11 at San Diego. He edged out Yolanda Scolari.

The delegates represented 86,000 active members in addition to associates and retired members. The new president is an 18-year member.

Craib's office as president of Toll Bridges Chapter No. 49 now is assumed by Ray Summer, vice president of the chapter, a maintenance man on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

Services Planned

"Family Services" will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Oct. 29 at 8 p.m.

A new format for services had been implemented with this Hebrew school term.

The last Friday evening of each month has been designated as "Family Service Sabbath," with services commencing at 8 p.m., rather than the usual 8:30.

The following day (on Shabbat) there will be no Hebrew school. Eli Lahav will lead the musical portion of services.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the observance of children's childrens' birthdays. The special family sabbath service also will honor new students in the religious school.

Congregation B'nai Israel also announced that while there will be no Saturday Hebrew School classes Saturday, there will be regular Shabbat morning services in the templehouse at 10 a.m.

Rabbi Ira Book will lead the services.

To be read will be: Parsha: "Noah." At the conclusion of Saturday morning services a Kiddush will be servied.

One of the highlights of the sabbath morning service, will be the observance of the anniversary of the Bar Mitzvah of David Dobrow, son of Mrs. Mimi Dobrow and Morton Dobrow.

Rabbi Book invites the community to attend the services in the sanctuary.

LARGEST FOREST

The largest forest in California, reports the National Automobile Club, is Los Padres National Forest, which extends south from Monterey County through Ventura County.

Pacifica Policeman Promoted

Police Chief Mel Nelson and Acting City Manager Donald Jeffers have announced the promotion of Allan Pascoe to the position of police sergeant.

Pascoe successfully competed with eight other Pacifica officers for the position.

The tests included a written exam provided by the California State Cooperative Personnel Services; a problem solving examination; and individual and group oral examinations conducted by two separate oral boards made up of sergeants, lieutenants, captains and educators from outside the department.

There was also an extensive assessment evaluation by Pacifica Police Department staff.

Pascoe has been with the Pacifica Police five years. He started in July, 1971, with 1½ years experience on the Berkeley Police Department. Pascoe has a B.A. degree in the administration of justice and a master's degree in public administration. He holds basic, intermediate and advanced officer certificates issued by the California Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training, and a lifetime teaching credential for college level instruction.

Pascoe vacates the position of field training officer, which will be filled at a later date.

Pascoe and his wife Coralee live in Linda Mar. They have two children.

He's Drunk . . . She's Terrified

By VERA GRAHAM

A terrorized young wife and mother today told the grim story of life with an alcoholic husband.

She did so, she said, because "It is time that we wives (or husbands) who are victimized and brutalized by alcoholics speak up and demand that some law be passed requiring mandatory treatment for alcoholics."

Marianna Brown (an assumed name), a Peninsula resident, called The Times to say she wanted to tell her story in public print to help husbands and wives gain the necessary courage to fight for their salvation and safety.

She said, "I have had it. I am tired of being terrified at every sound and knock on the door. I am tired of worrying about the welfare of my daughters. I think it is time that people began to realize the wreckage and chaos caused by alcohol."

Her marriage has been a relatively brief one of five years.

"I have loved the man, without question. We are now separated, and I am, for the second time, going to an attorney to get a divorce. We reconciled once before when he wept, begged forgiveness and promised the old promise which is never carried out — 'I'll never touch another drop, forgive me, forgive me,'" Marianna recalls bitterly.

"The lure of the bottle is far stronger than the love his family has offered him. I know, I've heard the old story of an alcoholic being sick. If such is the case, if it is a sickness, and if the victim refuses to seek medical help, refuses to seek psychiatric help, refuses to go to Alcoholics Anonymous, what can a family do?" Marianna wants to know.

Her story is a classic one. Police files throughout the nation are crammed with what is commonly referred to as the "family beef."

Marianna's case is typical of that of thousands of others: a husband in a drunken rage abusing his family, threatening them, smashing furniture, breaking down doors, threatening to kill his cowering wife and children.

Marianna said bitterly, "I am sick and tired of cowering. I am sick and tired of being brutalized, and insulted with obscenities. I am sick and tired of the compassion extended to the alcoholic who refuses to help himself.

"What about his helpless wife and children who live in daily terror that he will come crashing through the door in a drunken rage and blast their lives out with a shotgun?

"My husband has threatened to burn the house down around my sleeping children and myself. When is society going to come to grips and seek measures which mean safety for a family and enforced treatment for the alcoholic?" she asks.

Marianna brings out copies of police reports which relate facts of family rows, smashed furniture and eviction of a drunken husband.

But, Marianna points out, that's all police can do. No crime was committed in public. No crime was committed in their presence. The situation speaks for itself, obviously, but, unless a wife wants to make a citizen's arrest, they can do nothing.

And, even if she does, the next time she is confronted by her drunken husband, released from jail, she's the one who will face the consequences which too frequently mean beatings.

Why don't these victimized wives and husbands immediately get divorces?

"I am sure I am typical," Marianna says. "We love and forgive and hope that something will happen and that indeed the alcoholic spouse will never take another drink."

"But, finally," she continues, "you have to give up. In order to save yourself, salvage what you can of life for yourself and your children, you have to get a divorce.

"In my case, my husband has threatened repeatedly to kill me if I dared seek a divorce. Then he said he would grant a divorce, but I would have to sign an agreement which would give the family a pittance for support. I have found myself afraid for the lives of the children (and my own life. What would they do without me?

"How many times have we read in the newspapers about a family being massacred by an enraged drunken or deranged husband? The two go hand-in-hand, in my opinion. Alcohol destroys the mind. It certainly destroys the soul."

'I am sick and tired of cowering. I am sick and tired of being brutalized, and insulted with obscenities.'

"When he's sober, he's decent and loving and contrite and remorseful . . . but that never lasts" Marianna Brown says, tears filling her eyes.

And, she adds, as is inevitable, "He has managed to kill the last bit of love that I held for him. I cannot stand it any longer. My only fear is that when I take this step that he will try to kill the girls and myself."

The couple has been separated for several months, but that has not stopped the husband from forcing his way into the house, from making insulting, obscene and threatening telephone calls in the middle of the night.

"He suspects me of all kinds of things, of having boyfriends by the dozen. I haven't gone out with another man since we separated. I have reached the point where I don't care if I never see another man again.

"Of course I am bitter. Of course my perspective is distorted. Wouldn't yours be? I have begun to hate the man I have loved because of his brutality.

"The only thing I know how to do is to seek protection from the police . . . get a restraining order . . . get someone to come in and live in, so that the home will always be occupied, and if I can get a job, there will be someone here to oversee the children.

"I cannot live with the threat of murder facing me and the children. I can no longer endure his warning that if I go to court, he will literally break my neck. He says, 'I have nothing left to live for. I'll take you and the kids with me. The hell with it.'"

Asked if the couple had sought outside help, Marianna shrugs hopelessly.

"We went to a psychiatrist. He quit after two or three sessions and said the psychiatrist was a nut.

"We went to a minister, I wound up by being the one counselled. He stayed home and drank.

"Somewhere, somehow, the 'silent sufferers' in an alcoholic's family must join forces and get legislation passed that makes mandatory treatment of a man or woman who is no longer in control of their lives, who has surrendered it to the bottle, who can't face themselves or life without it."

Marianna adds that her husband manages to hang onto a job. He appears sober enough on the job.

But come 5 p.m., he either staggers home drunk and proceeds to threaten and beat his family, or he can barely make it through the door to head for the kitchen to pour a stiff drink for himself.

County Tax Bills Are in the Mail

San Mateo County Tax Collector-Treasurer Ross Conti today mailed out 187,000 property tax bills today, seeking to collect $256 million.

Embarrassingly, 1,000 bills were mailed prematurely by two days when the mail room got "its signals crossed," Conti said.

And the first protest was a legitimate one.

According to Conti, a 20-unit co-op in San Mateo was to be taxed $720 in sewage service charges, divided among the unit owners. Instead, each owner was billed $720.

"They hit the ceiling, and I don't blame them," Conti said with a chuckle. He said he doesn't expect too many mistakes like that.

Deadline for the first installment is Dec. 10. The second installment deadline is April 11.

Conti said that the average tax rate overall for the county's municipalities is up 41-cents to $10.079 per $100 assessed valuation.

Total rates (which include city, county, various school and special district rates) range from $8.11 in Burlingame to $12.19 in Pacifica and $12.59 in East Palo Alto.

Accompanying tax bills is a double-faced document which includes comparisons of tax rates in San Mateo County with those in Marin, Contra Costa, Santa Clara and Alameda counties.

It is contended that San Mateo County is lowest on property tax per capita.

Conti said that 80,000 of the 187,000 bills will be mailed to banks and mortgage companies which pay taxes for homeowners. The owner will receive an informational duplicate of the bill.

Beth Israel Classes Set

Congregation Beth Israel Judea, 625 Brotherhood Way in San Francisco will hold adult education courses, beginning Nov. 1 and Nov. 3 at the Temple on Brotherhood Way.

An adult education series kick-off breakfast will be held at the Temple in Fellowship Hall Oct. 31 at 10 a.m.

Class times will be 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays; 7 to 9:30 p.m., Wednesdays.

Mrs. Judy Morris will offer a course in "Basic Hebrew" throughout the year.

Volunteers Aid Retarded

Every parent, no matter how loving, needs time off from being a parent—in order to be a better parent.

Being a parent is a sensitive and a demanding, as well as rewarding, task.

The average parent can pick up a phone, dial the babysitter and mother and dad can go out to dinner, or away for a weekend, or just go shopping.

But, what happens in the case of the parents of a retarded child, or adult, or a cerebral palsied child, one who has epilepsy, autism or other neurological handicap? Theirs is a wearing, 24-hour task.

Who wants to fill in for a parent in such demanding circumstances.? There are people who perform these tasks but many more are sought. The call for help is being issued in San Mateo County by the Five County In-Home Respite Service. It is sponsored by the Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults, 1838 El Camino Real, Suite 214, Burlingame.

After years of effort by PARCA, which has long recognized the need, and most recently an accelerated eight-month planning effort by parents and professionals, the California State Department of Health has awarded a $58,193 grant. It is aimed at developing a corps of trained individuals who will be able to fill in for parents or guardians of developmentally disabled children and adults.

The grant, which covers a one-year experimental effort, is shared by San Francisco, Contra Costa, Alameda and Marin counties. They must prove to the state by the recruitment and training of parents' helpers that the need is great.

It is in fact, overwhelming, according to Roberta H. Peterson, San Mateo County coordinator. The five-county project director is Dana Smith.

There are no special requirements for qualified helpers, other than that be 18 years of age, or older and that they have compassion and a desire to help the helpless. They must be willing to sit for minimal fees.

Their training course will include instruction by experts in the field of disabilities. It will cover such areas as feeding, toileting, behavior management, seizure first aid, dressing, nonverbal communication and use of adaptive equipment.

The helpers, or companions, are also required to have a telephone, and ideally provide his or her own transportation.

Transit Increase Urged

A transit program providing Southern Pacific passenger service every 30 minutes during off-peak commute hours could possibly provide the mass transit service needed in the Peninsula corridor between San Francisco and San Jose.

Wallace Barre, project leader for the consulting firm of Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall (DMJM) told the Peninsula Transit Alternative Project Committee (PENTAP) Friday in Redwood City that the 30-minute service on the present two-track SF system would be feasible, although there might be the necessity of some interruption to allow for freight trains.

Upgrading Southern Pacific service is one of the alternatives being studied by PENTAP to provide a mass transit system on the Peninsula.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission has delegated PENTAP the task of complying with a requirement of the state legislature of recommending a transit system and cost comparisons of alternatives for the Peninsula by Jan. 1, 1977.

The Citizens Advisory Committee to PENTAP is pushing for an alternative which would provide for upgrading of SP service as the solution to the transit problem.

Some World Series — and related material — with which you may not be familiar:

In one way, it's good that the A's didn't make the Series, because it might have stirred up that continuing and boring melodrama propagated by Charley Finley a few years ago — the value of the World Series rings. There were times when the players seemed more worried about how big the diamond in their rings would be than whether or not they won the Series. Charley, you may remember, supposedly reneged on his promise of a more luxurious than usual ring, and instead proferred the players a less luxurious than usual ring.

Actually, that whole thing about Finley's cheapness concerning the ring was, relatively speaking, a bad rap. Nobody ever brought up the parsimoniousness of perhaps baseball's all-time but least publicized cheapo, Walter O'Malley.

Branch Rickey was often hit with the "most stingy" label, but old baseball men contend that O'Malley outdid Rickey in all ways — except when people were watching. At least, it is said, Rickey was above board with his tight-fisted tactics, and never broke his word in financial dealings with players, whereas O'Malley would buy drinks for the house when there was a camera running or a reporter's note pad visible, and then shaft a clubhouse attendant out of a few bucks with a back-alley tactic. As a matter of fact, Rickey is the man who inaugurated the custom of issuing Word Series rings to players.

O'MALLEY USED to insist on his players turning in their old ones when they got into another World Series. Nobody ever knew what he did with them, and in fact some players refused to turn them in, telling O'Malley they had been lost or faking a burglary. It is said that these claims almost always caused ugly scenes.

So, you see, one sometimes can find something good to say about Charley Finley.

SPEAKING OF THE ATHLETICS, you're probably aware that Cincinnati was the first team to play baseball under the lights, but you may not know that the old Philadelphia Athletics were the second team in big league baseball to install lights in their park. Now you know.

And speaking of lights, Brooklyn's Babe Herman hit the first home run under the lights, in 1935.

And speaking of darkness, did you know that there has been only one triple header in this century? Now you know that, too. It was played in 1920 between the Reds and the Pirates at Pittsburgh. Cincy won the first two, 13-4 and 7-3, and the Pirates took the night-cap-cap, 6-0 in only six innings. The triple header was a special dispensation by the league to settle third place, which was then the last spot which figures in World Series money. The first game started at noon, and the third game, naturally, was called because of darkness. Had their been lights in Pittsburgh, they might have played right into the World Series.

And if you're wondering why the big leagues still haven't consented to even think about inter-league play, you're not alone. Larry MacPhail proposed such a plan in 1939.

It has been well publicized that Catfish Hunter is just the third pitcher in baseball history to win 200 games before his 31st birthday, the other three being Cy Young, Walter Johnson and Christy Mathewson. But do you know who among the Big Four was youngest when he won his 200: It was Walter Johnson, who was just 27. Mathewson was 27, while Young and Hunter were 30.

AND FOR FOR SOME REAL trivia.

Who was the player who first popularized the use of and named the style bat known as a "Black Betsy"? Shoeless Joe Jackson, of Black Sox notoriety.

Everybody knows that Cleveland shortstop Bill Wambsganss made the only unassisted triple play in World Series history, against Brooklyn in the 1920 Series. But do you know who hit into it? It was pitcher Clarence Mitchell. A southpaw, naturally.

The 1912 World Series was replete with goats, but none stood out more than Giants' center fielder Fred Snodgrass, who dropped a simple fly ball in the 10th inning of the final game of the Series with Boston, an error which eventually led to the Giants' defeat. Who hit that ball? A relatively obscure utility man named Clyde Engle, who was pinch-hitting, getting to bat for only his third time in the Series.

Remember that 1946 Series, when Enos Slaughter scored from first on a single to score the winning run in the Series decider while the Boston shortstop held the ball in disbelief at what he was witnessing? That shortstop was Johnny Pesky.

In the 1924 Series between Washington and the Giants, the Series was ultimately decided by a ball that bounced off a pebble over the head of the Giants' 18-year-old rookie third baseman Freddie Lindstrom. Who hit that ball? Ironically, it was Washington's "boy manager," Bucky Harris.

WHAT MANY BASEBALL fans don't remember is that that particular World Series was actually decided by TWO pebbles. After Washington tied the score on Lindstrom's pebble in the eighth inning of that elimactic game, the score remained tied until the 12th. With one out in the Senators' half, Muddy Ruel hit a pop-up to catcher Hank Gowdy, who stumbled on his discarded mask and missed the ball. Ruel then doubled. Shortstop Travis Jackson next booted a grounder by pitcher Walter Johnson. Outfielder Earl McNeely hit an apparently made-to-order DP ball toward Lindstrom, and it happened again! Over his head, and Ruel scored the winning run.

And one more World Series pebble story. Who hit the grounder in the 1960 Series that struck shortstop Tony Kubek in the Adam's apple and eventually led to Pittsburgh ending Yankee World Series domination? It was future manager Bill Virdon.

MISCELLANY:

Did you enjoy, as much as I did, Reggie Jackson contradicting Howard Cosell during the playoffs — and better yet, Cosell getting caught in his own contradictions?

Strange, this year, that the NL had five 20 game winners, while the AL had only three. That's the first time, I believe, that the NL has had more 20 game winners since the AL went to the designated hitter, which generally has made 20 game winners in that league as prevalent as 15 game winners in the NL.

Also strange, in the league that was supposed to produce more runs with the DH, that Yankee Roy White was the only player in the league to score 100 runs (104).

If the Giants do lose Gary Matthews to the free agent auction and dump Derrel Thomas, which are both outstanding possibilities, do you realize that rookies Matt Alexander and Larry Herndon will then be the only blacks left on the roster? Could be the reason why the Giants can't win, or have you checked the Negro population of the Cincinnati roster lately?

IT'S IRONIC that fight fans are now complaining that Muhammad Ali is given favorable officiating in his championship fights. There was a time when fans usually claimed it was the other way around, that he was being picked on.

Woody Hayes is one of those college coaches who claim that two of the three things that can happen on a pass play are bad, and then go ahead and prove it by not knowing how to execute a proper passing game.

HOOT N' HOLLER

El Camino High School running back Dennis Cowen lets loose with a jubilant yell after scoring on a 28-yard run in the third quarter of Friday's game against Serramonte. Cowen picked up 191 yards in 22 carries and scored twice in El Camino's 26-13 victory, which set up an early-season crucial against Westmoor next week.

Crowded NPL Race

Rams Win a Thriller

There is still no lack of contenders in the North Peninsula League football race — six of the eight teams sport 1-1 records after Friday's action.

But next week's contest between unbeaten Westmoor and resurgent El Camino could conceivably decide the eventual champion.

Westmoor won a thriller from Oceana Friday, 20-14, while Camino beat Serramonte, 26-13, Half Moon Bay stunned Terra Nova on the last play of the game, 26-20, and South San Francisco outlasted Jefferson, 21-12.

Westmoor-Oceana

The first half ended in a 0-0 tie. Westmoor ended one serious Oceana threat when Fred Collier pounced on a Shark fumble at the Westmoor five yard line.

But Westmoor was quick to capitalize on a fumbled punt in the third quarter; the Rams' Chris Toohey fell on the ball at the Oceana 26 and three plays later quarterback Jack Dorn hit Marcel Crossland with a 13-yard touchdown pass.

Oceana mounted a drive early in the fourth period, aided by two penalties. QB Dave Hinds tossed 34 yards to Denis Murray for the score; the conversion snap went awry and Westmoor still led, 7-6.

Westmoor came back to drive 68 yards in 10 plays. Dorn scored on a keeper from 19 yards out, bumping off two tacklers. Oceana retaliated; Hinds put the Sharks in position with a 39-yard toss to Jim McCrary and found Murray for the TD from 14 yards out. Hinds got the two-point conversion on a keeper to make it 14-14 with 3:27 left.

Westmoor went into a two-minute offense, and took 2:08 to get the winning TD. Dorn completed three passes each to Crossland and John Smith; the last one to Smith was a 19-yard TD on a slant across the middle. Smith caught the ball over his head at the three and went in. Westmoor upped its NPL mark to 0-2 while onetime favorite Oceana is 0-2.

HMB-Terra Nova

Terra Nova (1-1) won the statistical battle but lost the game on a heartbreaker. Tiger placekicker Rainer Binsfeld had made two field goals (22 and 34 yards) and kicked the extra point after Jeff Bartizal's fourth-quarter TD run to pull TN even, 20-20.

With time running out, Binsfeld set up to try again — but the kick was blocked by a swarm of Cougars. Jackie Quinlan scooped up the loose ball and ran 80 yards for the winning score with no time left on the clock.

HMB (1-1) capitalized on turnovers to take a 12-0 first quarter lead on a 12-yard pass from Grant Campbell to John Galvin and a five-yard run by Peter Welty. TN countered with QB Daryl Fazzio's 11-yard scoring run, but then Campbell connected with Galvin on a 54-yard TD bomb.

Earlier in the day many TN players had attended the funeral of Dan Barber, a teammate who had been killed in a motorcycle accident Tuesday night.

EC-Serramonte

Serramonte (1-1) moved 66 yards in 11 plays to score after Dan Lara (also the Regents' QB) intercepted a Camino pass. Halfback Ron Gibson scored from a yard out on his fifth carry of the drive. Later, after a short Camino punt, Gibson slanted off right tackle, veered outside and got a crunching block by Kern Herbert to ramble for a 45-yard TD.

Camino (1-1) did the rest of the scoring. The Colts, aided by three penalties, drove 65 yards in the second quarter; running back Dennis Cowen scored from six yards out. On Camino's next possession Cowen broke loose for 60 yards on a draw play; Lara saved the touchdown with a tackle at the Regent 14, and Serramonte led 13-7 at the half.

After intermission Camino went 77 yard in five plays. Quarterback Al Kern hit tight end Mike Nickas for 45 yards and a TD.

Lara had two TD passes called back — one because of a penalty, and another because a receiver had stepped out of bounds long before hitting paydirt.

Camino went 80 yards in 12 plays, with the ubiquitous Cowen traveling the final 28 on a pitchout. The Colts iced the game on a 66-yard drive, with Kern scoring from three yards out on a keeper.

The Colts outgained Serramonte 249-92 in the second half and 330-233 for the game. Cowen picked up 191 yards on 22 carries. Gibson had 89 yards on 10 carries. Lara passed well, but was under constant, serious pressure.

SSF-Jefferson

South City (1-1) was in trouble most of the time. Jeff's Jack Sanders, a bear on both sides of the line, ran 68 yards for the opening score. South City's David Palmer came back with an 87-yard kickoff return to score.

SSF then got two breaks: one bad Jeff punt snap led to a 13-yard TD run by Kevin Brahney, and a second bad punt snap resulted in a safety. That made it 15-6, SSF. The Warriors iced the game on Tom Bernal's two-yard run. Jeff added another score on a halfback option pass to Sanders.

Chuck Reed carried seven times for 80 yards in a final Jefferson drive, but no score was forthcoming. Jeff is now 1-1.

Bulldogs Face Crucial Test

Quarterback Ralph Costanzo is mentally prepared to shed his backup status and lead the Bulldogs against City College of San Francisco this Saturday in the most important game of the season.

But he doesn't think he's going to get the chance, even though first-string passing whiz Randy Gomez painfully twisted an ankle in last Saturday night's 38-22 loss to host San Jose — CSM's first loss of the year.

"Randy's tough," said Costanzo. "You watch. I talked to him after the game, and he told me he'd rather miss all the games in the world than the one against CCSF, because of what CCSF did to us last year."

Last year CCSF trailed 33-7 going into the fourth quarter, but scored 34 points in 9:11 to win. Said Bulldog Coach Bill Dickey at the time, "When they got physical we just backed away and collapsed."

That's not likely to happen this year, win or lose. For one thing, too much is at stake. CCSF has beaten San Jose, so if CSM can win Saturday the Bulldogs can still go to the Bay Bowl.

For another thing, the Bulldogs had a rude awakening in San Jose. The Jaguars used physical power, big plays and CSM mistakes to lead 24-14 at the half (it should have been closer) and 38-14 at the end of three quarters.

CSM had relied heavily on passes to the wide receivers, with too little success, and got a comeback started too late. Costanzo passed the Bulldogs into position for Bill Ring's two-yard TD plunge with 2:32 left in the game, but too many errors had been made and too many chances wasted (San Jose coaches had been worried).

San Jose opened the scoring when fullback Ray Garcia went through the right side on a trap, was missed by several tacklers and rambled 52 yards. From then on CSM was so conscious of the inside run that reserve Jag quarterback Mike Martin was able to roll up 107 yards rushing on the option.

CSM drove, fumbled a pass deep in San Jose territory, got the ball back on Rich Miller's fumble recovery and scored on a 12-yard pass from Gomez to Ring.

In the second quarter, San Jose escaped a first down and 30 situation on its own 16 with a 41-yard Martin pass completed over missed coverage. The Jags went on to score.

A pass interference penalty on a bomb attempt to Paul Bachtold set CSM up for Gomez' one-yard sneak and a 14-14 tie. But after that the game started to get away.

Martin got clear outside and raced 63 yards to score. The Jags then intercepted a pass, went to work at the CSM 15, and settled for a 36-yard field goal.

On the Jags' first possession of the second half Martin completed three important passes, the last for seven yards, a touchdown and a 31-14 lead.

Gomez had hit two passes, driving the Bulldogs to the San Jose 31 when, under heavy pressure, he dumped the ball on a rollout — only San Jose's Mike Strickland grabbed the ball on a dead run and went 71 yards up the sideline to make it 38-14.

"That and the fumbled pass early in the first quarter were the two killing plays," said Dickey.

But the Bulldogs were really being handled consistently. San Jose had switched pass coverages for this game, and did a far better job of covering wide receivers Bachtold and O'Leary (each of whom had been injured and out of practice during the week) than expected.

CSM went to a shotgun formation, but still couldn't hit effectively. After Gomez was hurt it took Costanzo a while to warm up, and when he did he had a few passes dropped.

"We could have thrown more to our backs, thrown a few more passes underneath to take advantage of what they were giving us," said Dickey. "Defensively, I think the team played hard — but without discipline. They didn't play the defense the way it was designed to be played."

Cap Overcomes Week-old Woes

By DAN BERTELLOTTI
Post Correspondent

Capuchino High football coach Vince Marchi must have really been talking to himself after his team fumbled the ball away on its first two possessions against San Mateo Friday night.

Last week against Burlingame, the Mustangs coughed up the ball on 10 occasions and lost possession five times — one of the major reasons for Cap's loss.

But against San Mateo on the Burlingame field, Capuchino overcame its early game woes to post a solid 20-8 win over the Bearcats. Cap is still in the Mid-Peninsula League race at 1-1. San Mateo is in definite trouble at 0-2.

After fighting to an 8-8 halftime deadlock, the Mustangs owned the second half. They limited SM to just 52 yards and two first downs in the latter 24 minutes.

Cap moved the ball on San Mateo in the third period, but couldn't put any points on the board. But late in the quarter the Mustangs went 80 yards in eight plays, with Mike Holtzen scoring from a yard out. The big play was a 36-yard run by halfback Mike Jenkins.

San Mateo was unable to move the ball on its next series and Cap took over on its own 35 with 6:10 left in the game. The Mustangs hoped to run out the clock.

But better yet, they moved in for a TD in nine plays, all on the ground, with Jenkins diving in from a yard out. That score came with 1:50 left and iced the contest.

Cap had been first on the scoreboard as quarterback Ken Van Egmond found tight end Dennis Haskins along the right sideline for 20 yards. Van Egmond's PAT pass to Jenkins was good and Cap led 8-0 with 2:21 left in the first half.

But San Mateo came right back, mounting its only serious drive of the evening, going 50 yards in three plays. Quarterback Mike Henson completed two passes to Dave Hunt on the drive, including one for 16 yards and the score. Henson's PAT run tied the game.

Jenkins wound up with 103 yards on 18 carries and Holtzen added 65 on 16. Van Egmond was seven of 16 for 92 yards.

No Bearcat rusher got more than 20 yards. Henson had a respectable 85 yards in the air.

Capuchino	0	8	0	12—20
San Mateo	0	8	0	0— 8

Scoring: C: Hakkins 20 pass from Van Egmond (Jenkins pass from Van Egmond); S: Hunt 16 pass from Henson (Henson run); C: Holtzen 2 run (Pass failed); Jenkins 1 run (Run failed).

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

For the athlete in training or competition, snack foods are important providers of nutrients and energy. A balance of nutrients and an adequate intake of calories is essential to maintaining strength and endurance.

Last summer, Olympic athletes in Montreal were boosting their energy levels with California raisins, the official snack food of the 1976 games.

Raisins are an ideal snack for athletes because they're lightweight, portable and easy to handle, as well as being high in energy and tasty.

For your own snacking enjoyment, eat raisins by the handful or in these delicious Jogger's Gems. They're a cinch to make and, like raisins, these cookies are portable, packable and lightweight — perfect for lunch boxes, picnic and outdoor activities.

JOGGER'S GEMS

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup graham cracker crumbs
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 cup raisins
1½ cups natural cereal
2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk

Melt the fourth cup butter in an 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle half cup graham cracker crumbs evenly over melted butter.

Add, in layers, the half cup chocolate morsels, one cup raisins, one and one-half cups natural cereal and two-thirds cup sweetened condensed milk.

Bake in preheated 325-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes. Cool completely before cutting.

Makes 16 2-inch cookies.

Ecology Action

Ecology Action of Pacifica is asking other environmental organizations in the county to work together on regional directory of recycling centers.

Helen Murawski, president of the Pacifica group, said she knows of no such directory for reference throughout the county and she would like to get one started.

"We know there's more in San Mateo County than just us," Mrs. Murawski said, adding she believes there are at least four or five others in the county but precisely where they are and who is responsible is not very well known.

RODEO WIFE

Liz Shoulders of Henryetta, Okla. is among women traveling the national rodeo circuit with their famous cowboy spouses. Her husband Marvin's next performance is at the Cow Palace with the Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition Friday through Oct. 31.

It's Hectic, But She Likes It

She was a pre-med student at Texas Christian University, a baton twirler at the Cotton Bowl, doesn't come from "a horsey family" and until a year and a half ago had been to just one rodeo.

"Now I'm a rodeo wife and enjoying the life very much," says blonde Elizabeth Shoulders, wife of the third-ranking bull rider in the United States. She's in the Bay Area with her husband Marvin, 25, for the 32nd annual Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition at the Cow Palace Friday through Oct. 31. He's in the show.

Elizabeth, better known as Liz, knew almost nothing about rodeos when she married Marvin 18 months ago.

She enjoys the other young rodeo wives. As for all the traveling: "A lot of it I like; some of it I could just as well skip. I enjoy the places where we can stay awhile . . . it gives us a real chance to see the sights of the nation."

At the Madison Square Garden rodeo she "did some timing" and she's helped in the office.

"I don't go with Marvin everywhere; driving all night to reach a rodeo isn't for me. So I pick and choose where I might go. We celebrated our honeymoon by driving 800 miles so Marvin could make a bull riding event in Colorado. But I prefer the shorter runs — not so hectic."

Does she ever fear Marvin will get hurt riding a bull?

"Not really. He's a good rider. I just hope he doesn't buck off. I have a lot of confidence in Marvin."

Mrs. Shoulders has been on a horse "a little bit." And she knits.

But mostly "I love to cook and I think I do a good job," she says. "Marvin says I do. I love Italian dishes. I make homemade lasagna and spaghetti sauce. Marvin says that if I couldn't cook, he wouldn't have married me.

Liz Shoulders generally watches Marvin compete — sitting with the other rodeo wives in back of the bucking chutes. She admits that "rodeo life can be hectic, but I really enjoy it."

Does it ever slow down?

"Rodeoing is virtually a year-round profession," she says. "But after the Grand National at the Cow Palace, we have a break of a few weeks before the National Finals in Oklahoma City . . .

"But I wouldn't trade it for anything. It's been just great!"

104-Unit Apartment Complex Is Approved

With shaky hands, the Pacifica City Council upheld the Planning Commission's approval of a 104-unit apartment complex situated 30 feet from earthquake fault traces.

The council voted 3-2 to deny an appeal by resident Ruth Paige, who had said seismic and traffic reports for the Hickey-Gateway apartments were inadequate.

Voting against the project Tuesday night were Mayor Janice Fulford and Councilman Mark Savage.

"I do not feel it is a safe area for a high-density development," Savage said prior to the vote.

Mrs. Paige had protested the Sept. 7 commission approval of a draft environmental impact report, variance and specific plans for the project, proposed by Joseph Fitzpatrick of U.A. Construction Co. in San Francisco.

In addition to seismic and traffic problems, Mrs. Paige cited in her appeal an alleged lack of knowledge of California Environmental Quality Act guidelines by the city staff and Planning Commission and on inappropriate general plan designation for the area.

She also said that the purpose of the project — which she said was merely profit for the developer — is not justification to allow the development.

Associate Planner Robert Robinson recommended that the council deny her appeal and approve the project.

Robinson said a report by a state-registered geologist is in conformance with the Alquist-Priolo Act, which sets guidelines for high seismic risk areas. The engineer for the project, he said, is familiar with seismic design.

Traffic congestion at the Hickey and Skyline Boulevard intersection, he said, will be alleviated in part by installing a traffic signal late this year or early next year.

Fitzpatrick also is required to deposit $2,345 in a signal fund for its share of costs to provide signals at Hickey and Gateway.

He also pointed out the "free enterprise system in which we live allows one to invest their monies as they wish for a possible profit."

The council wrestled with the apartment proposal for nearly an hour, focusing mostly on the seismic problems.

They questioned at length Lawrence Cann, the city's geological consultant, about the validity of the applicant's geological reports.

Cann said there is no doubt that the proposed site is a "high-risk seismic area."

And, in all probability, he said, there will be a major earthquake in the vicinity of the site during the lifetime of the apartment buildings constructed on it.

But, Cann added, the applicant's reports are adequate and well done.

"I can't argue against this from a geological point of view," Cann said.

Mayor Fulford pointed out that the Alquist-Priolo Act requires a 50-foot setback from active trace faults in all construction.

Cann said that those of concern are secondary faults and a 30-foot setback is adquate in such cases.

"We could second guess not only this project but every project on fill or where there is the slightest bit of ground movement expected," Councilman Stan Farber said after listening to the lengthy discussion.

"The only thing we forgot is to bring us a Bible and make him swear on it," Farber said. He also said the only one who can assure that an earthquake will never cause severe damage to the apartments is the "Man above," and Cann doesn't have that direct a line of communication.

Lorvan said only that the project is of "negative value to the community" and that it will cost the city more in services than it will bring into the city in tax revenue.

Two Witnesses Tell of Stabbing

Two witnesses testified in Superior Court Wednesday that they saw Kenneth Russell stabbing his friend, John Yazolino, on a Pacifica street Jan. 22, 1976, just two weeks after the defendant had been released from a mental hospital.

Russell, 23, of San Bruno, is on trial for murder before a jury of eight men and four women in the courtroom of Judge Gerald E. Ragan in Redwood City.

Russell has pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity. If he is found guilty of the slaying, then a trial will be held to determine his sanity at the time.

Yazolino's girl friend, Kathy Jean Neal, testified that she had been walking near her home at about 10 p.m. with Yazolino, when Russell stopped his car nearby. She said that Yazolino, 20, went to the car after Russell stepped out and started to give his friend a bear hug, his customary greeting.

Although she couldn't remember a knife, the witness said, she saw something in Russell's hand as he began flailing at Yazolino.

Miss Neal said she ran to the home of a friend, Gordon "Skip" Holcomb, and began banging on the door. She stated that Yazolino started running to her house, where he collapsed on a couch, bleeding from stab wounds of the face and back.

Miss Neal testified calmly in the courtroom, but broke into tears outside in the corridor. She was being comforted by an unidentified woman when jurors filed out for the noon recess.

Holcomb, who said that he had known Russell for eight years, testified that he received a telephone call from the suspect the night before the slaying in which Russell asked directions to his house and said he intended to come out the next night.

After he said he wouldn't be home, Holcomb testified Russell told him, "That's ok. I'll do John tomorrow night."

Holcomb described how Miss Neal came to the door of his house, "screaming and pounding on the door."

"She told me, 'some guy is stabbing John'," Holcomb said.

The witness said he went outside and saw Russell stabbing the victim.

"He (Russell) had a knife," Holcomb said. "John was stumbling backward, Ken was moving forward."

Holcomb said he got between the two men, grabbed Russell's arm and told him to drop the knife, which the suspect did.

The witness stated that Russell said he had to go, then got in his car and drove off.

Holcomb testified under cross-examination by defense attorney David Goldstein that he told Russell, "Stop, you're blowing it."

He explained that he knew Russell had been in a mental hospital and would have to go back.

During questioning by prosecutor John Oakes, the witness stated that after Russell had departed the scene he called the Russell home to warn Russell's mother, Mrs. Marian Russell. Holcomb said Kenneth answered the phone and stated, "I didn't do anything today," then hung up.
